Janet's Experience

When the opportunity to work in Japan for a month was offered, I decided to explore it. I did not realize the impact it would have on my life and me. The people who come to me will always tell me that the time was well spent, away from home and in very different culture. They were right!

On arriving in Tokyo, I immediately liked the new environment. I surprised myself with how much I enjoyed my new way of life.

Three colleagues from the U.S. joined me. We lived in the same house in an area of Tokyo called Hara. We did not speak the Japanese language and did not know anything about the culture. We had to learn Japanese and generally getting around in Japan. The first three days of a week I had to spend in a hotel as we were not in the city and had to go to the hotel to get our luggage and have something to eat. We had to learn to find our way around the city.

One evening I decided to go for a walk before work. I took a different way home, but I was not used to the city and after a short time of walking and trying to find my way home, I had to stop to ask for help. I was not used to the city. I decided to go to the Japanese Embassy. Knowing I could find help in the Japanese Embassy, I then had to go to the embassy. I had to learn to go to the embassy to get help. I then had to go to the embassy to get help. I then had to go to the embassy to get help.
